

I will ask you one thing - do you have anything you'd like to keep private? If so then forget doing so if the rules on wiretapping are relaxed even further than they already are. It's bad enough due to Patriot that all the proper paperwork is no longer needed - do you really think we need to make this any easier?

I have little hope of you protecting our privacy as you are part of our government and thus have vested interests to protect. I can only hope that my voice has reached someone of some sanity and height that they can at least look at the problem with an objective eye.

I'll just go back to loving Big Brother now...
